

Lecture 9: Input-Target data pairs

Given a text sample,

Extract input blocks as subsamples that serve as input to the LLM.

The LLM prediction task during training is to predict the next word that follows the input block.

During training, we mask out all the words that are past the target.